philosophy After many years of working for the public schools, I learned about dyslexia from a friend of mine in 2013. Knowing her son Beau, and the struggles they went through to get help for him, changed my life! As soon as I observed The Hope Academy in Concord CA (at her suggestion) I knew I was called to serve this population of students. I was so passionate about learning more about Dyslexia as I started a new position as Resource Coordinator (started the Resource Program) at a local private school in Danville, CA) that I returned to grad school and received a Masters in Special Education with an emphasis in Advanced Methodologies. I was so excited to be able to do my thesis on the elements and effects of the Orton Gillingham approach with a dyslexic student of mine. Also, as a result of attending many IDA sponsored workshops and trainings, and my own private teaching my
